A NEW POEM BY WHITTIER.

The New York Independent contained the following poem by J. G. Whittier:

A drear and desolate shore,
Where no tree unfolds its leaves,
And never the spring wind waves
Green grass for the hater's tread;
A land forsaken and dead,
Where the ghostly icebergs go
And come with the ebb and flow
Of the waters of Bradore.

A wanderer from a land
By summer breezes fanned,
Looked around him, awed, subdued
By the dreadful solitude,
Hearing alone the cry
Of seabirds clinging by,
The crash and grind of the floe,
Wall of wind and wash of tide,
"Oh, wretched land," he cried,
"Land of all lands the worst,
God forsaken and curs!
Thy gates of rocks should show
The words of the Tunesan Seer
Read in the realm of woe
'Hope entereth not here.'
Lo! At his feet there stood
A block of smooth larch wood.
Beside a rock-closed cave,
By nature fashioned for grave,
Sate from the ravening bear
And fierce fowl of the air.
Wherein to rest was laid
A twenty summers' maid,
Whose blood had equal share
Of the lands of vines and snow,
Half French, half Eskimo.

In letters, unefaced,
Upon the block were traced
The grief and hope of man,
And thus the legend ran:
"We loved—
Words can not tell how well
We loved her,
God loved her,
And called her home to peace and rest,
We love her."

The stranger paused and read,
"O, Winter Land," he said,
"Thy right to be I own,
God loves thee not alone,
And if the fierce winds blow
Over thy waste of rock and snow
And athly iron gates
Thy ghostly iceberg waits,
Thy homes and hearts are dear,
God's love and man's are here."

Thy sorrow o'er the sacred dust
Is sanctified by hope and trust.
"Still, who rescue'er it goes,
Love makes its atmosphere;
Its flowers of Paradise
Takes root in the eternal ice,
And bloom through polar snows."

A NEW MORMON TEMPLE.

The Imposing Structure Being Erected in the Wilderness.

Pleche Record.

The construction of the Grand Temple of Worship now being erected by the Mormon church at Manti, Utah, is being pushed ahead with as large a force of workmen as convenience will permit, and the walls of the building are beginning to loom up and are covered with scaffolding and derricks. We learn from Mr. D. Wilken, who has just returned from a trip out in the Manti country, that the temple is being constructed out of white limestone. The building is situated on the top of a mountain, a spur of Wasatch range, that extends out into the town of Manti, and is called by the people of Utah the Mountain of the Lord.

The foundation of the temple is sixty-three feet above the level of the road, and is set in solid rock; the top of the mountain having been excavated and removed, making it level, is ninety-five feet in width and one hundred and seventy-two in length. From the ground to the square will be eighty-two feet in height. There will be two towers erected, one at the east end and the other at the west corner of the building. The tower at the east corner will be one hundred and seventy-nine feet in height, while that of the west corner will be ten feet lower, or one hundred and sixty-nine feet in height. They are thirty feet square at the base. There are four terrace walls around the mountain in front of the temple, which will average about seventeen feet in height and are about nine hundred feet in length, and in all contain two thousand four hundred cords of rock as at present built, and fifty-five thousand yards of debris has been excavated and hauled away. The stairway from the road to the upper terrace is sixty-three feet, and will contain one hundred and thirty-two stone steps, sixteen feet in width.

The back of the terrace will be filled with rich soil to the top of the stone work and trees and shrubbery planted, and the tops of the terraces are to be ornamented by neatly dressed and cut stone, and statues will be placed at various and appropriate places. The water to supply the temple will be brought in wooden pipes from a spring situated about a mile and a quarter east of the temple back in the mountains, and has a fall of seventy-nine feet to the reservoir, and one hundred feet from the reservoir to the lower terrace. The whole side of the mountain is to be planted with trees and flowers, and the crystal stream poured forth by the little spring, as it winds its way down the side of the mountain, will travel from root to root quenching their thirst, thus assisting the trees to produce their foliage in spring, the flowers to bloom and the grass to grow.

The building of the temple was first commenced five years ago, and has been worked on ever since, and it is expected that it will take fully five years to complete the building. The building will be fifty feet in height, and the excavation at the east end for the basement is about forty-six feet in depth. Mr. Folsom is the architect, and, as to his skill and ability as an architecturalist, the Manti Temple will speak for years after he has passed from the face of the earth. It was President Young's intention when he ordered the erection of the temple that it should be the grandest and most imposing structure on the American continent, and all indications point to such being the case.

Disease in Cigars.

If Trask, the great anti-tobacco apostle, were alive now, he would find a splendid text in the announcement of the prevalence of small-pox in the tenement houses where the majority of cheap cigars are manufactured. Vile as these imitations of cigars are they are made doubly repulsive by the knowledge of the fact that they pass through the hands and mouths of people afflicted with the most dangerous of all contagious diseases.

If the people who make the "three-centers" (or seenters) that are so extensively sold were to see the filthy dens in which they are manufactured, it is probable that the business of many of the cheap cigar dealers would be closed. Not only are these cigars rolled in dirty and, perhaps diseased hands, but the tips are fastened with dirty paste and rolled in mouths reeking with garlic and other vile abominations. Now small-pox comes as an addition to the other delectable concomitants of the "fragrant weed." Better smoke a pipe neighbor.—N. Y. Truth.

Twenty-dollar Gold Pieces in His Shoes.

Arkansas Gazette.

An old colored man who had just sold his cotton limped along a Little Rock street and overtaking several colored women who had refused to marry him walking with several "buck niggers," the old man exclaimed:

"Suthin's been ur hurtin' my feet all day," and removing one of his shoes he took out a twenty-dollar gold piece. "Suthin' has been hurtin' dis foot, too," he continued, and removing the other shoe took out another twenty-dollar gold piece.—"Dis beats any town I ebber seed. A man can't walk roun' without gettin' his shoes full ob gold. Hit reminds me ob de New Jerusalem."

Italy has formally protesed against the action of France in reference to Tunis, and France is seriously considering the project of withdrawing from Tunis.

Supplies for the Indians are through the fault of the contractors, frozen up in rivers of the Northwest and will not reach their destination before spring. There will be suffering in consequence. Agencies are making loud calls for vaccine matter.

FRANK R. PHISTER

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, DEC. 24, 1881.

It is said on good authority that Secretary Hunt is to remain at the head of the Navy Department.

Neither the New Postmaster-General nor the Attorney-General will assume the duties of office until after the holidays.

In noting the fact that Mr. John R. McLean has become sole owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Washington Post says "it is rumored that he will make it a Democratic paper."

THREE negroes have been drawn on the grand jury of the Montgomery circuit court for the present term. One of the local papers says they will probably ask to be excused from the service.

Gov. PORTER of Indiana is said to have his eye on the republican nomination for president, "as a man who carried Indiana and saved the day in the great contest of 1880." It has generally been supposed that Star Route Dorsey is the man who saved Indiana. At least President Arthur says so.

A REPUBLICAN newspaper remarks that there are indications that a raid will be made from democrats in this session of congress upon the national banking system. The greatest danger to the national banking system is threatened by those who insist upon paying off the national debt at a rate of one hundred and fifty millions a year.

THE London Times in an editorial article considers that Guiteau was induced to allow a cast of his head to be taken by judicious flattery and says: "Nothing in criminal procedure has ever equalled the laxity of this trial. What should have been a grave investigation has become a sort of entertainment. Although a murderer and a cheat, Guiteau has produced the most farcical trial ever heard of. Now that he has attained notoriety as a criminal, he is bent on showing his importance. The laxity of the proceedings is neither mended by the conduct of the prosecution nor by discretion on the part of the presiding Judge."

THE Morrill tariff bill which has been recommended for passage without amendment by the Senate Committee provides for a board of nine commissioners appointed from civil life, who are to make a report on or before the 1st of January, 1883. If the bill passes it will put off the revision of the tariff until sometime in 1884, and in the short interval before the final adjournment of congress on the 4th of March there would be no time for the consideration of a proper tariff law and it would be postponed for an issue in the Presidential campaign of that year, and after that the proposition for a tariff commission renewed with the same results. And then a report made by persons outside of congress would have little chance of being considered, as experience has amply demonstrated. If Senator Garland's bill, which provides for a board of three Senators, three members of the house, and three others who are not members of Congress, were passed, the report would have that many advocates to explain its details and urge its adoption. A report from such a commission would also be apt to have more influence upon congress and the country than one made by nine persons all of whom are from civil life.

The protectionists will all, therefore, support the Morrill bill, for the reason that under its operation the matter of revising the tariff may be postponed indefinitely and that with them is the chief object in raising a tariff commission.

Stewart, the notorious train robber, incendiary and bank burglar was arrested at Houston, Texas. It is said he robbed the Chicago and Alton train of $10,000. The detectives had been looking for him for seven years and there are ten indictments against him at Kansas City.

The testimony of the experts is having an effect upon Guiteau. He appears care worn and apprehensive. He makes it a point to abuse every witness that takes the stand. The evidence of every expert of standing has been that Guiteau is sane enough to know the difference between right and wrong and to be held responsible for his crimes. A lawyer named Reed from Chicago has entered the case for Guiteau.

Christmas.

Men, women and children, have been equally busy in preparing for the advent of the happy Christmas. With buying, selling, mirth-making and frolic the citizens of Maysville have been well employed. The Morning Mail Friday made the run against a strong headwind, from Cincinnati to New Richmond in one hour and forty minutes, coming with in five minutes of the Boston's best time. She is going to prove a clipper, and the Boston will have to look out for her laurels.

Howarth's great double show and world renowned Hibernica will appear at Washington Opera House on Friday and Saturday evenings, December 30th and 31st and at a matinee Saturday afternoon. Read what the Schuylkill Republican says:

Father Egan, of St. Vincent de Paul's Church seldom undertakes anything without carrying it to success. The bringing of Howarth's Hibernica to Minersville to play a three-nights engagement for the benefit of his church, has been a financial success—yielding a handsome sum to the church.
